On a cellular level, light energy from the MedX SLD (superluminous diode) MedX LLLT (low level laser therapy) is absorbed by the mitochondria and transformed into biochemical energy that is available for cell use. As a result, the cell function is modulated and normalized in treated tissue. Given that all cell types can absorb light, the potential range of effects is seen broadly - in the nervous, skeletal, immune, vascular and lymphatic systems.

MedX Phototherapy

Is a proven and highly effective treatment, which increases local microcirculation, accelerates tissue repair, reduces pain, decreases inflammation/edema, and enhances immune response and angiogenesis.

Homeostasis is achieved naturally, safely and easily.

MedX® Phototherapy has gone through stringent regulatory processes. MedX products are US FDA cleared, Health Canada licensed and CE Marked. These products are produced in an ISO 13485:2003 certified manufacturing and testing facility.

Clinicians and physicians report faster healing and reduced pain, all without the use of drugs or invasive surgery.

Thirty-five years of worldwide clinical success, 2,500 published papers and 120 randomized, controlled trials, speak to a remarkable effectiveness, which has earned clinicians both gratitude and respect.
